GRAND JUNCTION, CO – Timberline Bank is proud to announce the official launch of Timberline Mortgage, a new mortgage division created to deliver personalized, competitive home financing solutions backed by the strength, stability, and local commitment of a community bank.

This strategic expansion reflects Timberline Bank's ongoing investment in serving Colorado communities and deepening relationships with homebuyers, homeowners, and referral partners. Timberline Mortgage combines modern lending capabilities with the high-touch service and local decision-making clients expect from a community-focused institution.

The Timberline Mortgage leadership team brings decades of combined experience across retail, wholesale, and bank-based mortgage lending:

- Justin Harris, Mortgage President
- Glen Whaley, SVP of Mortgage Production
- David Posta, Senior Loan Officer

"Expanding into mortgage lending allows us to serve our communities in an even more meaningful way," said Jim Pedersen, Co-CEO of Timberline Bank. "Homeownership is one of the most important financial milestones in a person's life, and we believe clients deserve the same relationship-based service and local decision-making in their mortgage experience that they have come to expect from Timberline Bank."

Together, the team will lead the division with a consultative, relationship-driven approach while building scalable systems and processes to support long-term growth.

"Launching Timberline Mortgage allows us to combine the flexibility and innovation of a modern mortgage platform with the trust and strength of a community bank," said Justin Harris, Mortgage President.
