Timberline Bank Welcomes Wes Campbell as Deposit Sales Officer in Aspen

ASPEN, Colo. — Timberline Bank is pleased to announce that longtime Aspen banker Wes Campbell has joined the bank as Deposit Sales Officer, further strengthening Timberline's commitment to relationship-based community banking in the Roaring Fork Valley.

Campbell joins Timberline Bank after serving as a Branch Manager in the Aspen market, bringing extensive banking experience and longstanding relationships throughout the community. His move represents a significant addition to Timberline's growing presence in Aspen and reflects the continued momentum behind locally focused banking.

As more customers seek personalized service, local decision-making, and stronger community connections, Timberline Bank continues to invest in experienced bankers who understand the unique needs of the Aspen market.

"I've spent my career building relationships in this community, and joining Timberline Bank gives me the opportunity to do that in a more meaningful way. Local banking allows you to be closer to the people you serve, and that's what matters most to me, being accessible, building trust, and helping support the individuals and businesses that make this community what it is," said Campbell.

Campbell's addition aligns with Timberline Bank's long-standing philosophy of keeping banking local — supporting local businesses, local families, and reinvesting deposits back into the communities the bank serves. Unlike large national institutions, community banks like Timberline play a direct role in supporting the local economy through lending, business growth, and community involvement.

“Wes is highly respected in the Aspen community, and we're excited to welcome him to the Timberline team,” said Jason Taets, Chief Banking Officer at Timberline Bank. “His experience, relationships, and commitment to community banking make him a natural fit for our organization and our approach to serving customers.”

Timberline Bank has continued expanding its presence across Western Colorado by focusing on relationship-driven banking, local leadership, and personalized financial solutions. Campbell's transition further reinforces Timberline's investment in Aspen and its commitment to providing a community banking experience centered on accessibility, trust, and local expertise.

Customers and community members will have the opportunity to connect with Campbell at Timberline Bank's Aspen branch located at 122 W Main Street.

About Timberline Bank:

Timberline Bank is a full-service, independent, and locally owned bank. The bank was chartered in October of 2004 by its employees and local investors from Grand Junction, Aspen, and Montrose. Each of their markets have their own leadership and President. This allows Timberline Bank to better serve its communities because decisions are made at the local level.
